ABOUT SPINA BIFIDA

The Association for Spina Bifida & Hydrocephalus ("A.S.B.A.H.") exists to support and help those born with these conditions and their families both nationally and through local associations.

Spina Bifida is the defect which results when the bones of the spine and the spinal cord which they protect are not properly formed. It arises early in pre-natal development and its causes are not yet known. Hence this appeal to finance research into its prevention. Hydrocephalus, an excess of brain fluid, is often associated with Spina Bifida. These effects can now be alleviated, but even so damage to nerves may have already occurred and there is often paralysis in the lower part of the body. Despite this, many of the children lead happy and useful lives, given extra care. On average, one baby is born with this condition every four hours in Britain alone. And it can happen to anyone.
